

SEPAC Overview

The Regional Special Education Parent Advisory Council (SEPAC) is a group of parents with children who have special needs that want to help other families facing similar challenges. We volunteer our time to provide support and resources because we've been there, we understand. We also advise the school committees about the education and wellbeing of their students with disabilities. Our goal is to listen and provide information and assistance in an open and friendly environment. We are committed to empowering all families of students in our communities that are on IEP's and 504 plans.
